Hailie Nene Foundation Newsletter

Introduction

Hailie Nene Foundation is a privately family owned company with its main objective being to help those less privileged. Established in 2013 in Durban - KwaZulu-Natal Province of South Africa, it has recently relocated to eMalahleni (Witbank) - Mpumalanga Province of South Africa.

The main focus for the foundation is to concentrate mainly on individuals but also work with groups.

As a self-funded initiative, the foundation has yet to make a major impact in the broader community. Partners are welcome. Our partners may include those willing to donate and those seeking donations. We strive to be open to all communities but also involved with religious communities. Our principle is based on the notion that even though we cannot help everybody, we believe that the few individuals we help will one day realize the broader impact of giving. As a farmer would know, you may plant one seed of corn and get from it 100's.

Most Recent Projects

Our most recent project was in the month of January 2017. This was a back-to-school project whereby we handed over stationery to the Gateway Church International in Klarinet, eMalahleni.

With the help of some good samaritans, we managed to collect the little we could in order to support others.

And one lucky kid landed themselves the digital brain of our times. A fully functional PC

Current Project

The currently planned project, for February 2017, will involve collecting food parcels to be handed over to the selected Community.

We, therefore urge anyone who is willing, to support our call. In this day in life, there are still many, many families that go to sleep on empty stomachs. Helping at least one will go a long way in giving them hope, that good Samaritans still do exist.

Thank You

We thank you for reading this article.

We hope that the little we do will motivate others to do the same.

Please stay tuned for the next issue in March
